

SAFETY, ENVIRONMENT & QUALITY

Safety, Environment and Quality are three elements that underpin everything we do in our business. In our line of work, though, you would expect that to be the case.

So, what makes us different? We back up our commitment to safety, environment and quality with action that applies to each and every piece of work we do.

Safety

We make it our business to stay in touch with each of the regulators who has an interest in our business: to ensure that we maintain a current understanding of their requirements for each different type of operation we undertake. Every on-site operation we undertake is supported by a job specific Method Statement and Risk Assessment that incorporates our clients' local rules and allows us to address potential problems before they arise. These documents form part of a formal safety management system. Our continued focus on safety has been recognised by RoSPA.

Environment

We actively encourage our clients to adopt a recycling approach wherever their inventories allow. When establishing a new recycling route, we will carry out a Duty of Care visit on the company and its processes, both to assure ourselves it provides genuine recycling and so we can actively engage with the relevant regulator before any material is sent to the recycling facility. We aim to minimise the impact of our transport operations by efficient logistics.

Quality

At Safeguard International, we do the job properly. Clients trust us to carefully and securely handle the data and information they provide us with and expect us to use it wisely in the jobs we undertake for them, keeping it safe even after the work is complete. Our independently certified ISO 9001: 2000 system provides the basis for all our operations, giving confidence to our clients that we work in a structured and well planned way. The feedback we receive from clients suggests that our field Technicians are regarded as the best in the business.
